Where Do We Come From? What Are We? Where Are We Going?
Commissioned for the exhibition from contemporary artist Ian Kirkpatrick, this artwork explores the social and natural causes behind human migration, both in ancient times and in the present day. On display until 16 September 2018.

What’s On
at the Museum of Natural History
May - August 2018

9 February – 16 September 2018
www.oum.ox.ac.uk/settlers

From the arrival of the earliest modern humans to the people of the present day, the Settlers exhibition tells the dynamic story of Britain’s ever-changing population as revealed by genetics, archaeology and demography.

Exhibition Family Trail
Find out where we came from, what objects can tell you about the past, and why people move.
For ages 7+.
Until 16 September.

Stones and Bones
Discover the changing climates, peoples and animals of British pre-history in our volunteer-led object handling sessions.
Saturdays, 11am-1pm, until 16 September.

Where Do We Come From? What Are We? Where Are We Going?
Commissioned for the exhibition from contemporary artist Ian Kirkpatrick, this artwork explores the social and natural causes behind human migration, both in ancient times and in the present day. On display until 16 September 2018.